OWNIE CARROLL TO SNARE EAGLES TODAY

As THE TOMAHAWK goes to press, there is not a single ticket unsold for the great Eastern baseball classic to be played on Fitton Field this afternoon. When the first Boston College batter strides up to the plate to face the peerless Carroll of Holy Cross, the eyes of some 20,000 odd will be upon him.

Today's game marks the last B. C. fray for the phenomenal Ownie, and has been eagerly awaited by the fans since the remarkable game played in Fenway Park on May 15th. That game was a pitching duel of the tightest kind until the eighth inning. Carroll had the supposedly fierce Eagles literally standing on their heads. McCrehan likewise went great for seven innings.

Came the tell-tale ninth with Holy Cross in the rear. Perhaps it was the crack of the Purple bats that sent the Eagles soaring; at all events, the Eagles blew up and the Purple, thanks to Joe Morrissey's brilliant fielding and the stick work of Walsh, Cote, Freeman and Savage, triumphed in the initial encounter with her closest rival, 5 to 1.

Only once in his four years at Holy Cross has Carroll suffered defeat from the Eagles. That was a 4 to 1 game back in 1923.

Capt.
Owen T.
Carroll
of Holy Cross
The greatest college pitcher of all time

"The Ace," "Orful Ownie," "The King of College Twirlers" are his appellations. Forty-eight victories in fifty starts is his record. He is heralded throughout the length and breadth of the land as the greatest college pitcher that ever climbed a mound. Today he reaches the climax of his college career when he will endeavor to once more turn back the Eagles, bitter rivals of the Chiefs.

Owen's fame is widespread, his unparalleled achievements bespeak his ability, but they do not tell his graciousness, his manly conduct, his model sportsmanship. He plays the game for the game's sake. If ever an athlete was worthy of emulation, was a credit to Alma Mater and admired by his fellow-students, it is Owen.

To them his scintillating performances are hum-drum, his feats during these four years sanction them to expect the impossible, so great is their faith in his ability.

Be it basketball, golf, tennis or baseball, it is always "Come on, Ownie," and come on he does. The greatest pitcher in a long line of immortals, the finest athlete that ever wore the Purple—Captain Owen Carroll, '25.
